

a Little of This and That in --
OUR TOWN

The following article was written by Frank Wells of Saginaw, editor and publisher of the Saginaw Valley Sportsman magazine. It is a graphic description of the huge Canadian forest fire that has ravaged Ontario.

If everyone could see the flaming results of carelessness in the woods there wouldn't be many forest fires.

I saw enough on a recent day to make me one of the most careful of all sportsmen in years to come. And I only wish all you readers could have seen the same.

I saw miles and miles of lush green Ontario forest lands going up in flames. I saw miles and miles of blackened hills and valleys that looked like they will be shunned for years to come by animals and vegetable life alike.

This experience came because I was lucky enough to be invited to make an airplane flight over the biggest forest fires in the history of Ontario, probably all of Canada. My host was Frank MacDougall, deputy minister of the Department of Lands and Forests, who had memory enough to remember me among the thousands of people he meets.

MacDougall dropped by the Ontario Ranger School near Algonquin Park where the Michigan Outdoor Writers were guests of the Province, and made the trip more interesting was the fact he was flying the first Beaver airplane out of the factory.

This modern work-horse of the north woods was built on specifications of the Lands and Forests men, one demand being that it take off the water with a full load within 15 seconds. I timed the take-offs through 11 hours of flying and none was more than 15 seconds, although two were strictly down wind. With a brisk wind on the St. Mary's River at the Soo, we actually went into the air in 10 seconds. With five heavy men aboard.

MacDougall knows his Ontario like you know your back yard. He uses a map only when pinpointing fires. These reports by radio back to the nearest forest headquarters. The radio in a forest pilot's plane is constantly in use. If MacDougall wasn't talking or receiving reports, the nearest station he was listening to reports from other far-flung posts.

We heard one ranger 300 miles north reporting: "I've got a square stern canoe and 10 gallons of gasoline." "We never did find out the cause of the report. Probably his only means of transportation to a fire. Fires were breaking out all over the province before they were through burning some 200 square miles laid in waste.

Fire fighting is different in Ontario. The means of transportation is by water and air. And there's a limit to the number of men and the amount of equipment that can be transported by plane and canoe. While Michigan rushing thousands of men by truck, auto and train, Ontario hauls in half dozens by plane. Where Michigan uses tractors and plows and shovels, Ontario can use only portable pumps and hose. Ontario has not sand for building fire breaks. Her hills are rock.

And the fire fighters must often wait for the blaze to reach strategic locations where the lakes before they can get to it with lines of hose. Some times they must wait for Heaven-sent rains; and that was the case this month.

MacDougall reached the fire north of Blind River, near the Mississagi River country fished by so many Saginaw Valley men. On one hilltop we saw flames had blackened the lower girders of a fire water tower. We found later he had ascended just ahead of the roaring blaze.

We saw a plane landing on a nearby lake and followed it in flames. The plane was making a crackling noise that could be heard above the roar of the 450 hp motor. Fire fighters were unloading equipment from the huge Norseman plane. They had miles of hose, and several pumps for pushing the lake water up hills. When the grade is too steep or the distance too great, they set up booster stations with an extra pump and a canvas water tank big enough to hold several hundred gallons.

Ontario probably has the best forest fire fighting equipment anywhere. It spends 7 million dollars a year on the job. And yet there's times when it is a hundred times too feeble to cope with the roaring flames.

This was one of those times. And for years to come visitors to that once-beautiful forest will be staring in awe at the desolate results of carelessness. Their awe would have been magnified a million times if they had seen the flames roaring through the pines 300 years old.

Be careful! Don't start a forest fire

Final Rites Read For Devere Owen Schmidt

Devere Owen Schmidt passed away suddenly at the home of his mother, Mrs. Holger Schmidt, Tuesday morning, June 8. Mr. Schmidt was 39 years old and had been in ill health for some fifteen years.

Services were held from the Schmidt residence on Friday afternoon, June 11 at 2 o'clock. Rev. R. C. Puffer officiated at the final rites. Mr. Schmidt was born in Grayling on July 1, 1908 to Mr. and Mrs. Holger C. Schmidt. He spent his childhood here and graduated from Grayling High School in 1930. Later as he became more helpless his chief entertainment was the radio and keeping up with sports and current events. He had a very keen mind to the last in spite of his frail body, and a kind and loving disposition which is a very great legacy to his home.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Holger Schmidt, sister, Mrs. W. Langlois of Detroit, brothers, Frank and Howard of Grayling and Harold of Milwaukee. Relatives from a distance to attend the funeral were Ray Owen, Mr. and Mrs. G. Reckless Passing, Driving, Wrong Side Of Road, Major Cause Traffic Deaths

By Dr. WALTER A. CUTTER.

This is the third of a series of "Traffic on street and highway safety," written by nationally recognized accident prevention specialist, and published by this newspaper in the interests of greater traffic safety.

The latest available figures indicate that more than ten per cent of the motorists involved in all fatal accidents were driving on the wrong side of the road. On rural highways 13 out of every 100 fatal accidents can be attributed to passing too fast, too soon, too late or with too little thought.

The inherent risk involved in passing is the unknown. Vertical curves, hills or roadway misalignment restrict vision and hide vehicles just beyond the area of vision; horizontal curves often conceal what lies ahead, and approaching vehicles frequently blend deceptively with the background.

Passing on the wrong side is often an accident cause. The safest practice, and generally the only lawful one, is to pass on the left.

Multiple-lane express highways and street cars sometimes provide exceptions to this rule.

Misjudging the speed of other cars is another cause of mishaps. About the only way the speed and distance of an approaching vehicle can be judged is the rapidly with which it passes such landmarks as telephone poles, billboards and buildings, and this comparatively accurate judgment can only be made when the car approaches

Their many friends here extend sincerest sympathy.

Bank President Truettner, in announcing Mr. Gothro's resignation said, "We at the bank were reticent about Mr. Gothro leaving the employment of the bank as he was a faithful and efficient employee and assistant cashier, but we realize the larger field in which he will have to work and we see a good future ahead of him. All of us in the organization think he will make a splendid success of his work and we wish him well."

Mr. Truettner added that no successor for the post has been selected. Plans are being made, however, to engage the services of a qualified person who will succeed the duties formerly carried out by Mr. Gothro.

SENIOR SKIP DAY

The senior class started off on its trip 7 A. M. Sunday, June 6 via Grayhound bus. At Standish we stopped for lunch and then proceeded to Detroit, where we boarded our ship, the S. S. Natick.

The next morning we docked at Buffalo. We walked about 10 blocks to the depot where we boarded a train to Niagara Falls. There we boarded buses for a tour of the city, stopping to take pictures and buy souvenirs. It was the first time for most of us to stop at an immigration center.

When entering Canada we gave our birthplace and our return, the approximate cost of all merchandise bought.

We boarded the train once more to return to Buffalo and thence to our boat. Our last point we started back to Detroit.

We spent our first night on board ship by participating in a song fest, which was followed by a dance.

Michigan Passes 41 1-2 Per Cent Of Bond Drive Quota

Sales Totalling $41,529,828 As Of May 31.

Since the Security Loan Drive was launched in mid-April, Michigan residents have invested $41,529,828 or 41 1/2 per cent of this State's quota as of May 31, Frank N. Isbey, State chairman, announced yesterday. The Bond Drive continues through June 30, by when Isbey expressed confidence Michigan will exceed its quota of $100 million.

During the month and a half the bond campaign has been in progress, almost 1,000 industrial plants and commercial establishments throughout Michigan have reactivated the Payroll Savings Plan, through which salaried employees and workers are enabled to purchase Savings Bonds on the installment plan. Many additional plants of larger size have continued this plan for employee participation ever since first set up in 1941. Isbey pointed out that many bonds being purchased under the Payroll Savings Plan during May will not figure in the above sales total for that month, since payments are still incomplete. These sales will become effective in June or July.

First of Michigan's 83 counties reported to have reached its quota is Barry, with 104 per cent of the $237,000 asked for. The top ten Michigan counties in quota percentages as of May 31 are—Menominee with 68 per cent; Dickinson, 63 per cent; Lenawee, 58 per cent; Ontonagon, 52 per cent; Genesee, 48 per cent; Wayne, 47.8 per cent; Muskegon, 46 per cent; Kent 45 per cent; Livingston, 43 per cent; and Washtenaw, 42 per cent. The sales organization in many of the State's counties has only recently been set up, Isbey points out.

Payroll Savings Plan Important
The Payroll Savings Plan was instituted in industrial and commercial concerns throughout the nation back in 1941. Its purpose was to enable salaried employees and wage earners to participate in the War Bond drive through purchase on the installment plan. Through this system of automatic payroll deductions, a very large portion of the huge sum of $31 1/2 billion outstanding up to April 30 last in E bonds was purchased. It is of interest to note that the people of Michigan held, when the current Bond Drive started, $2,200,000,000 in E, F, and G Savings Bonds with a maturing value of more than $3 billion.

The response by industrial and business concerns to the Treasury Department's request for reactivation of the Payroll Savings Plan during the present drive has been most gratifying, Isbey reports. An outstanding example is that of Continental Motors Corporation of Muskegon, first industrial plant to surpass its quota. Within 4 days after the drive opened, Continental had reached its quota of $240,000 and by late May had topped $441,000 in payroll savings. (Continued on Page Four)

Reveal New Cars Friday

"A precedent has been established in the low-priced automobile field by combining handsomeness and beauty with economy and comfort in the interiors of the 1949 Fords," said Fred C. Welsh, manager of the Welsh Motor Sales in announcing an "open house" sale at this time and all the cars will go into the League fund toward the Annual Banquet at the conclusion of the season.

To develop and produce the 1949 passenger-cars, Ford Motor Company has expended more than $37,400,000 in tools, dies, jigs and fixtures, he said.

The modern design has been molded along functional lines, resulting in a long, low, sweeping silhouette. The grille is distinctive, the hood massive but shorter and the body 40 wide the rear fenders have been eliminated. There are clean, unbroken lines from front to rear, he explained.

Comfort has been one of the primary objectives in the new Ford. There is more room in the "lounge car" interiors than in many cars with much larger overall dimensions. Front seat widths down. (Continued on Page 6)

Unemployment Insurance Abuses

Is state unemployment insurance becoming something of a racket in many instances? The official figures lead one to that unsavory conclusion.

In 1946, a year of full employment, the ratio of benefits paid to contributions collected for the country as a whole was 120.1 per cent. Eighteen states paid out more in benefits than they received in unemployment levies, and three paid out more than twice as much.

The experience in 1947 was a little better. But the ratio of benefits paid to contributions collected was over 70 per cent, and several states paid out more than they took in.

It must be kept in mind that this happened during years when the national income, employment and production in general were at an all-time peak. In another depression with its consequent mass unemployment, it is almost impossible to visualize what would happen to the funds. Obviously, their receipt would be only a drop in the bucket compared to outgo, and a stupendous burden would be placed on the taxpayers.

Those who have studied the matter are convinced that many men are using the unemployment funds as a means of obtaining free vacations when they don't feel like working—and that laxity either in the law or in the administration of the law is making this possible. That is an inexcusable abuse of a system which was set up to help those who were out of work through no fault of their own and couldn't find a job after a period of honest, aggressive searching. It must be stopped, and it can only be stopped by action within the states.

An airman had to parachute to safety owing to engine trouble. On the way down through space he met an old lady floating up. "Have you noticed a Spitfire going down?" he shouted.

"No," yelled the old lady. "Have you seen a gas stove going up?"

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Live Longer

Someone asked Pappy Miller last week how he stayed so spry at ninety. Pappy told him:

"Well, sir—when I work, I work hard. When I set, I set loose. When I think, I go to sleep."

According to Doc Hollister, that formula isn't far amiss. "Hard work," says Doc, "never wore out anyone before his time, providing he knew how and when to relax."

Doc himself works overtime, with his daytime patients at the office, and his evening calls. And when he gets home he takes it easy with a mellow glass of beer and chats with the missus until it's time to go to bed.

From where I sit, relaxing is a fine art—especially in these tense, fast-moving times. And there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer—enjoyed with pleasant company—to restore that easy frame of mind that one needs after a hard day's work.

Grayling'You're welcome, son
...but go easy on the gas'

Cooperation and just a little thoughtful planning will ease us all over the present gas "shortage". We don't expect rationing will return with all of its annoyances and limitations, but this could happen if the available supply is reduced too greatly. So we strongly suggest limited vacation trips this year and only necessary driving around home. Use your car of course, but be conservative. This is a good time to have the engine tuned so that you will get maximum mileage—and always use Power Flight gasoline and lubricants, which give uniform, dependable performance with economy.

Cancer Detection Centers

Cancer is one of the major problems confronting the doctors of medicine today. For years they have been working in the classroom, laboratory, hospitals and offices to stop cancer. Medical research has discovered many things about this killer, but the search must continue until some workers find the key that will unlock the mysteries of cancer.Helping the doctor of medicine recognize and treat cancer are the cancer detection centers that have been set up in key cities in many sections of the country. There are 80 such centers in Michigan.
Confidence in the work and personnel of the cancer detection centers is essential if this dread disease is going to be found in its early stages. Educational campaigns carried on by medical doctors through the Michigan Department of Health, the Michigan State Medical Society, and the American Cancer Society, Michigan Division, are resulting in greater than ever cooperation between cancer "victims and the medical profession.
As a result, people are gaining confidence in the cancer detection centers.This confidence has been built up because the traditional patient-physician relationship is maintained in the centers. The patient talks in confidence to his doctor.
The fact that cancer isn't contagious or catching and therefore does not need to be reported is one of the principal reasons the traditional physician-patient confidence can be maintained at the detection centers.When an employer substitutes

General Motors Corporation, a Michigan concern, has the reputation of being the best managed corporation in the world.
And so when GM announced a two-year contract with the CIO United Automobile Workers, granting workers an "annual improvement" of 8 cents an hour and 8 cents an hour tied to cost of living, many Michigan employers paid attention. Here was the pace-setter with a new formula for industrial peace.In a two-day field trip in Southern Michigan recently, we talked with a number of employers about 1948 problems of production costs and what their firms were doing to meet them. Invariably the employee attitude on profits was mentioned as a factor. Cost of living has been the upward with dimming persistency. While sales remain good, profits are declining. Many retailers are wondering what is ahead.I'd like to know the answer to this employee problem," said one employer. "It does not seem possible for the worker to win better wages perpetually without also inflating prices.The employee demand for higher wages is stimulated, it now appears, by a belief that the average business is rolling in high profits and that wage increases
can be granted out of profits alone.
This is a fallacy, a misconception.
I sometimes think the average American is illiterate when it comes to understanding economics."His petulant remark prompted us to dig in the record. January, 1941, to December, 1947, industrial wages went up 84 per cent, while the cost of living arose 69.1 per cent.Dividends to stockholders represented about 35 per cent of corporate earnings in 1947. The remainder—5 per cent—went to improve products and services through research and better machines, to replace worn equipment, and to provide additional working capital sorely needed because of higher wage and material cost.Did you know that 75 per cent of the nation's post-war expansion program was financed out of current and past earnings?
Well, such is the case.Charles F. Kettering, engineering consultant of GM, believes that the GM "annual wage improvement" could be offset by a 2 per cent annual increase in efficiency. Maybe GM can do it.
Surely other firms, less well managed, will be unable to follow suit.Sumner H. Harvard, Harvard economist, points out that collective bargaining with its perennial demand for higher wages have resulted in a continual slow rise of prices.
"With prices rising 2 or 3 per cent a year, who would wish to own savings accounts, government bonds or other securities paying 2 or 3 per cent a year?" he asks.Is the ultimate effect of this collective bargaining going to be a gradual reduction in the purchasing power of workers' pensions, savings accounts, life insurance and bonds? Is this going to rob us of any incentive to save? Is there no hope for the widow's son?In England where there is a labor government today, unions have been asked by their own government to heed the following:
"It is essential that there should be no further general increase in the level of personal incomes without at least a corresponding increase in the volume of production." (White paper, Feb. 4, 1949.)
The same policy could well be adopted over here.Convert

"School Days"

I
Mrs. Giegling is our teacher's name
If we don't pass it will be a shame
We studied hard all year in class
And we all hope that we will pass.

II
We must thank the one who gave all the good things that we have
That is why we like to play
On the school grounds every day.

III
We have all sorts of fun
Games we play and races we run
We are as happy as can be
For this happiness is part of school
you see.

IV
Some days are for jumping ropes
With Andre, Yvonne, Karen and other little folks
The roller skates and bikes and such Help us like spring very much.

When there is a rainy day
Mrs. Giegling lets us stay in for recess and play.
We can color or read at our will
But we have to be very still.

VI
We read so many of Lincoln's tales
About the way he split the rails
We read all of his poems
Because he is so well known.

VII
On Valentine Day we drew names
Teddy Crawford was the one I claimed
We all had a wonderful time

Opening and reading our Valentines.

VIII
We thought that we looked plenty keen Dressed all in Patrick green
Jo Ann, Mary and I—that day
Went to Brownies to a play.

IX
A happy day with cheers and yells School is out we will miss the teacher and the bells
Oh, three long months of joyful play.
Will start on this vacation day.
—By Ella Mae Cook.

Highways, Key To Tourists

Highways are the key to the development of Michigan's tourist industry according to "Highway Needs in Michigan," the engineering analysis of requirements to bring Michigan's roads and streets up to date.

The report, recently published by the Michigan Good Roads Federation Highway Study Committee, enumerates Michigan's natural and man-made recreational sources—3,000 miles of shoreline, 11,000 inland lakes, 36,000 miles of rivers and streams, five national forests, 3½ million acres of state forests, parks, public fishing and hunting sites, and winter sports areas.

"Highways have opened up many of these resources to recreation seekers and have made possible the development of an industry which is second only to automobile manufacturing in economic importance to the state. Expenditures of tourists, vacationers, and sportsmen in Michigan have been estimated at over half a billion dollars a year," according to the report.

The following data on recreational travel were revealed in the traffic analyses:

One out of every ten miles driven in Michigan is recreational travel—well over a billion and a half vehicles in 1947.

Three fourths of this recreational mileage is driven by Michigan residents, one fourth by people from outside the state.

Half of the out-of-state cars on Michigan roads are driven by recreation-seekers.

One fourth of the total travel for the year is rolled up in the vacation months of July and August.

August. Traffic across the Straits of Mackinac is a good barometer of recreational travel. Two-thirds of the yearly traffic carried by the State Highway Department ferries crosses during the summer vacation period. One fourth of the passenger cars making the crossing are from other states and almost another fourth come from Wayne County. Straits traffic in 1947 set a new high record of more than 500,000 vehicles. The fact that Michigan issues more hunting and fishing licenses than any other state testifies to the extent and quality of the facilities it offers to sportsmen.

SHORT STORY

Always
A Payoff

By
KATHRYN BEMIS

HENRY HALL came breezing into his suburban bungalow. No Mandy in the kitchen, no wife Grace in sight. "Grace will warm up something and call it dinner!" he muttered. "Why does she play bridge on Mandy's day off?" But after living ten years with a bald-headed, flat-chested little scrimp of a man like himself, a modest-salaried manager of a women's apparel shop, he couldn't blame Grace for craving entertainment.

He switched on a lamp in the living room and settled into his chair by the radio. His gaze lighted on his encyclopedia.

He took out the first volume his hand touched. Perhaps a little Shakespeare would brighten his talk. He started as something flew out from a leaf, zigzagged to the rug.

A ten dollar bill. He snatched it up, stuffed it into his blizzard. Grace, hiding her money in books! He yanked out another masterpiece, shook it. Two more tens fluttered before Henry's eyes.

Within a few minutes, he had taken down $200 instead of meek knowledge, from the awe-inspiring tomes.

BUT from that night on, Henry was worried. The allowance he gave Grace was small. She must have scrimped on household expenses a long time to save that money. What sinister project was she planning?

So he was greatly relieved one evening when she met him at the door and quavered, "Oh, Henry, I've been robbed to look concerned. He asked, 'Robbed? What's gone?' 'Two hundred dollars I saved from the house-money! I hid it in the encyclopedia! I've saved—done without Mandy days on end—saved what I would have paid her—'

Her bitter disappointment overcame his desire to punish her. He jumped up, saying, "Wait! Just a minute!"

He raced upstairs to his clothes closet. He reached into his dark brown suit had unaccountably disappeared!

"Where in the dickens is my old brown suit?" he called downstairs. "That moth catcher? I warned you I'd give that rag away or burn it up! But I did even better. The old clothes man gave me 50 cents for it!"

FROM now on, Henry was a changed man. Finding that old brown suit had become his obsession. Then one morning when giving instructions to one of his saleswomen, he abruptly wheeled about, dashed out to the street. He grabbed a passing man by the collar of his shabby brown coat, demanding, "Where'd you get that suit?"

The voice of the stranger shook with fear of the madman he judged Henry Hall to be. "Gris and Griscom made it for me—five years ago," he said conciliatingly.

"Ha!" he said, relaxing his hold. "Gris and Griscom made

"Where the dickens is my old suit?" he called downstairs.

that suit for me—the label's inside! Smart, aren't you?"

"What's coming off here?" snapped a policeman, thrusting Henry aside.

"This man's wearing my suit—he's got the money—he's—"

After the matter had been talked out before the police sergeant and Henry was convinced that the stranger had once been affluent enough to buy custom-made suits and now was clothed in one of them, he returned to the shop, a chastened man.

Mandy's black face wore a broad grin that night when she placed the beef roast before Henry. She said, "Mr. Hall—you know what? My boy 'frap' looks swell in your old brown

Gaylord PCA Celebrates Its 15th Anniversary

The Gaylord Fard Credit cooperative credit association celebrated its 15th anniversary of the Farm Credit Act approved June 16, 1933. Fifteen years of service to agriculture in the retailing and wholesaling of credit to farmers and farmer's co-operatives was the reason for the celebration.

It is with just pride that the local Fard Credit association, the Gaylord Production Credit Association, celebrated the passage of the Act by Congress and the chartering of the association on December 20, 1933. Since that time Arnold W. Ostrander, president of the PCA, says the association has served 1,858 farmers in Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Montmorency, Oscoda, Otsego and Presque Isle counties, and has supplied credit amounting to $2,878,000.

A. J. Townsend, secretary-treasurer, reports that as of May 31, 350 farmers in the above counties have loans and an outstanding value of $362,000.

These loans are made to meet the needs of agriculture and are to be repaid from the farm income. That was the thinking back of various acts that were the foundation of the Farm Credit Administration.

Newspaper Sponsor Beaver Isle Marker

The sole remaining building erected by "King" James J. Strang and his Mormon followers at St. James on Beaver Island will be marked with a historical plaque sponsored by the Michigan Press Association, Inc. in behalf of the newspapers of Michigan, and the Michigan Historical Commission in behalf of the State.

Dedication of the plaque will take place Sunday, June 27. The building is known as the Old Mormon Printing House. Erected in 1850, it housed the first daily newspaper north of Grand Rapids, the "Northern Islander." The publication suspended following the assassination of King Strang. The sect then disbanded.

The Beaver Island trip and ceremony will be the concluding event of the 1948 summer meeting of the press association and the Michigan League of Home Dailies. Dr. George Arthur Buttrick, New York City pastor, will speak Friday evening. Governor Kim Sigler has been invited to be a guest at a dinner Saturday evening. Host publisher is Larry Towe, Charlevoix Courier.
